

BXP Releases 2025 Sustainability & Impact Report

April 22, 2026

BOSTON--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Apr. 22, 2026-- BXP (NYSE: BXP), the largest publicly traded developer, owner, and manager of premier workplaces in the United States, today announced the release of BXP's 2025 Sustainability & Impact Report.

2025 highlights include:

- Improving energy efficiency by achieving an energy intensity reduction of 38% below a 2008 base year
- Achieving carbon-neutral operations for greenhouse gas emissions scopes 1 and 2
- Initiating 2.1 million square feet of retro-commissioning, bringing our three-year retro-commissioning program total to 15.3 million square feet
- Completing a major heat recovery retrofit at 601 Lexington Avenue in New York, NY, as the first company in the cohort to fulfill obligations under NYSERDA's Empire Building Challenge
- Progressing contracted clean energy supply with the construction phase commencement of a 20 MW solar project, from which we will procure clean power under a power purchase agreement

"Excellence and leadership in sustainability is important to our clients, communities, and capital providers," said Owen Thomas, Chairman & CEO, BXP. "Delivering measurable impact for our stakeholders is central to our strategy and a key driver of our ongoing success."

"In 2025, we remained focused on managing energy-related operating expenses, advancing carbon-neutral operations, and further differentiating BXP's premier workplaces. I'm proud of the progress our teams delivered and grateful for the talented professionals whose expertise made it possible. These achievements reflect a disciplined, performance-driven approach to operations and capital allocation, positioning BXP to navigate evolving regulatory requirements and client expectations," said Ben Myers, SVP, Sustainability, BXP.
